

Amendments to the Specification

Change page 5, lines 8-15, as follows:

The reporting E-mail preferably includes a URL for linking to the detection result, and the URL preferably has a document described with www-compatible language including the report on a result of detection. The document described with the www-compatible language preferably includes a plurality of choices for a method of re-informing. The document is preferably subjected to processing allowing for divided screen display to accommodate various and different display capabilities of the terminal devices owned by the informing persons.